About the Symposium

Join us for an insightful symposium exploring the complex relationship between obesity, ethnicity, and inequality in health. The day will feature international and national expert speakers discussing ethnic patterns in obesity, the evolutionary biology behind the epidemic, and the lived experiences of individuals navigating healthcare systems. We will also explore solutions and interventions, with a focus on tailoring approaches for diverse ethnic groups.

Through expert presentations, field studies, and Q&A sessions, attendees will gain a deeper understanding of the challenges and opportunities in addressing obesity in a global, multi-ethnic context.
